Goeller Steps Out As Democratic Chairman

BOARD OF FIVE CHOOSES MADER AS SUCCESSOR

Leader Of Party During Last Four Years Cites Press Of Business

J. M. TOOTLE INDORSED

Delay Necessary In Choice Of Enumerators To Work In 1940 Census

The Democratic party in Pickaway County changed leadership Monday evening in a series of moves that amazed even members of the executive committee who had gathered in the Common Pleas courtroom. Lawrence E. Goeller, Beverly Road, chairman of the executive committee and director of the party's activities through several important campaigns, resigned effective immediately, and Tuesday, John F. Mader, 464 East Main Street, was serving the term that expires next July 1.

Members of the executive committee who attended Monday evening's meeting were shocked by Mr. Goeller's move, although some of his more intimate friends said that they had understood that the resignation was coming. A committee, including Harry J. Briggs, Walter Beckett, J. B. Cronley, A. H. Crownover and Mr. Mader, was appointed to confer with Mr. Goeller concerning the resignation, but members of the committee declared that the chairman refused to consider continuing his reign in office.

Mader Selected

After a lengthy conference during which several outstanding Democrats were discussed, the committee decided to name Mr. Mader to fill the vacancy.

Mr. Goeller declared in making his move that he did not have the time to give the office that he demanded. He declared that he believed that the chairman who led the party in the May primary should also serve in the important November general election.

Mr. Goeller leaves Tuesday on a business trip that will take him out of Circleville for the next two weeks.

Tootle Indorsed

The Monday evening meeting was called to consider indorsement for a board of elections position and to name census enumerators to begin work April 1. James M. Tootle of Monroe Township, who is serving the unexpired term of the late J. Robert Hott of Robtown, was indorsed to serve a full term. The appointment is up to Earl Griffith, secretary of state.

Nothing definite was done about the enumerator jobs, because, as Tom Krinn, secretary of the committee and already serving in a census position, said, too much remains indefinite. The enumerators, to be chosen by the Democratic party, will be definitely named in the latter part of March, Mr. Krinn said he believed. Each Democratic executive committee is being asked to name someone in his precinct for service.

'Bama Sharecropper, Dad Of Quadruplets, Says Number An Awful Shock

JASPER, Ala., Jan. 16—"It was an awful shock—I'd been expecting twins."

Thus did Clyde Short, an Alabama sharecropper and part-time miner, give an inkling today how it feels to be the father of quadruplets.

Short's wife gave birth to three girls and a boy Sunday night under almost primitive conditions in the small house on the farm the Shorts lease at Nauvoo, just west of Jasper.

G-MAN EXPECTS MORE ARRESTS

Hoover Says Federals Can Prove Charges Involving Christian Front

NEW YORK, Jan. 16 — More arrests in other cities were expected today to follow the seizure in New York City of 17 members of a secret group of the Christian Front organization charged with plotting an almost fantastic conspiracy to overthrow the United States government.

With these 17 being held under close federal guard in default of $50,000 bail each pending a hearing February 5 on their pleas of not guilty, federal agents were reported to be pursuing their investigation in other cities.

Boston police, cooperating with federal agents, raided the New England headquarters of the Christian Front, it was announced in New York, and seized filing cards and literature found there.

Although there was some skepticism that the sorry-looking lot of 17 arraigned before Federal (Continued on Page Two)

DOG TAG SALES LAG; SHORT CITES DOLLAR PENALTY

As the deadline for the sale of dog licenses four days off (January 20), County Auditor Forrest Short reports that the sale of tags is far behind that of last year.

If tags are not purchased before the deadline a $1 fine will be assessed on each delinquent tag. To date only 904 tags have been purchased while last year at this time 2700 had been sold.

Prices of tags are $1 for males and spayed females, $3 for females and $10 for kennel licenses.

Application for licenses may be made in person or through the mails. Mail applications must be posted not later than January 20. A separate application should be made for each dog, enclosing the proper fee and giving a complete description of the dog especially as to color, breed and sex.

SECURITY BOARD CLAIM FILED FOR INFANT DUE TO BE BORN IN APRIL

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 16—In behalf of an expectant mother, whose husband died January 4, a $35-a-month claim was filed today with the Social Security Board's Philadelphia office.

The claim is believed to be the first of its kind in the nation. Judge William L. Dill, regional director, explained that regulations do not permit disclosure of the name of the 24-year-old widow, who expects the stork in April.

If she were childless, the widow would receive a lump payment of $150 and no more until she reached 65. The arrival of the child, however, will entitle her to approximately $18 a month as long as she remains single and $12 a month while he is paid the child until it reaches 18. The combined payments may reach $35 a month.

BRITISH ADMIT LOSS OF THREE MYSTERY SUBS

Hazardous Journeys Result In "Disappearance" Of Small Craft

GERMANS RESCUE SOME

London Believes Undersea Raiders May Have Sought To Enter Bight

LONDON, Jan. 16—Three small British submarines have been lost during the last week while engaged on mysterious and "particularly hazardous" service, presumably in German waters, the admiralty admitted today.

In a brief communique which threw no light whatever on the nature of their daring missions, the admiralty said:

"During the last week, the submarines Seahorse, Undine and Starfish failed to return to their bases or report.

"These vessels were engaged in particularly hazardous service.

"The admiralty fears that they must be regarded as lost. The next of kin has been informed.

"The German wireless has announced that part of the crews of the Undine and Starfish were rescued."

Third Not Mentioned

The German announcement, however, gave no details of the submarines' activity, and claimed only destruction of the Starfish and Undine, with no mention of the Seahorse. The Nazi communique said:

"The British submarines Starfish and Undine were destroyed by means of German defense measures at the German (Heligoland) Bight. A part of their crews were rescued."

The Starfish and Seahorse were subsimmers of the swordfish class, displacing 935 tons and carrying a complement of 40 men. The Undine, also a coastal type of submarine, displaced 730 tons and carried 27 men.

The terse British communique left England speculating as to the "particularly hazardous" service on which they were engaged.

One theory was that the three submarines, working in a team, had tried to emulate the feat of Lieutenant Guenther Prien of the German navy, who nosed his U-boat into Britain's chief naval concentration base at Scapa Flow and sank the battleship Royal Oak.

It is doubtful whether any German ships comparable to the Royal (Continued on Page Two)

Weigh Three Pounds Each

Dr. Sankey worked with the mother and quads throughout the night, keeping the babes wrapped as warmly as possible in blankets and whatever covering offered. On Monday Mrs. Short and the babies were brought to the Jasper Hospital. The four weighed about three pounds each.

Authorities said the quads were the first to be born in Alabama. The three girls were named Faith, Hope and Charity. The boy has not yet been named.

"We figured there was more than one on the way," the father told reporters. "But four! Gosh, that sure was a surprise."

Short, asked if he was proud to be the father of quads, grinned and replied only that his neighbors "have been kidding me."

Many Offers Received

Already the quads have become the center of attention in this part of the country. Hospital attaches revealed the family has received many offers from business concerns wishing to "sponsor" the youngsters.

Dr. Sankey was modestly receiving the congratulations of the neighborhood, which quickly dubbed him "the Dr. Dafoe of Alabama."

EX-HUSBAND OF STAR TAKES TOO MANY TABLETS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 16—John M. Fox, 39, former husband of Screen Actress Joan Bennett, was taken to a police hospital early today in serious condition from what police said was an overdose of sleeping tablets.

Officers said Fox called the hospital and told attaches "you had better come and get me."

"I'm tired of being awake all the time," he told officers and attendants at the hospital. "I didn't want to be annoyed any longer by not being able to sleep. I want to sleep for a long time."

Police said he also intimated he had been brooding over Miss Bennett's recent marriage.

Fox, son of a wealthy Seattle lumber man, married Miss Bennett, who last week eloped with Walter Wanger, screen producer, in 1926 and was divorced from her in 1928, the actress obtaining custody of their daughter, Adrienne, then only two months old.

Shortly after Fox was brought to the hospital, he lapsed into a coma.

Barbara Bennett, sister of the actress, appeared at the hospital and made arrangements to have Fox transferred to a private hospital. She said her sister was still on her wedding trip and she did not know where to locate her.

FATE OF HUEY'S DYNASTY UP TO STATE'S VOTERS

NEW ORLEANS, La., Jan. 16—Louisiana was voting for a governor today in a primary election expected to decide the fate of the political empire that the late Huey P. Long came out of the hills to establish 12 years ago.

So important is the second issue—fate of the long dynasty—that a record turnout of 600,000 voters was predicted for the statewide Democratic primary, in which many other state officials are nominated. In Louisiana, a one-party state, nomination is tantamount to election.

With its authority and power dulled by amazing revelations of graft, the machine has placed the mantle of responsibility on the shoulders of Gov. Earl K. Long, younger brother of the late "Kingfish."

As gubernatorial candidate, Gov. Long serves as the standard bearer for a machine which became known all over the nation when the blazing banner of "share our wealth" was held on high by Huey.

Huey was slain in September (Continued on Page Two)

ITHACA, N. Y., Jan. 16—A verdict of suicide resulting from a nervous breakdown was issued by the coroner today in the death of Douglas James Hill, 19, of Mansfield, O., a Cornell freshman whose body was found 200 feet below a nearby suspension bridge.

McDOWELL GIVES GAS RATE TALKS UP POSITION ON IN COLUMBUS TO LIBRARY BOARD BE OPENED AGAIN

In a letter to Mayor William B. Cady, George D. McDowell, county superintendent of schools, Tuesday offered his immediate resignation from the Board of Trustees of the Circleville Public Library.

Citing an opinion of the Attorney General, he said that under the circumstances he legally could not hold the office of a trustee. The opinion cited by McDowell read as follows:

"One who has been appointed as a trustee of a municipal public library in accordance with the provisions of Section 4004, General Code, is a public officer and is required by the provisions of Section 4666 to be an elector within the corporation. If such a trustee moves outside the limits of the village corporation, he thereupon forfeits his office as a trustee of the municipal public library."

Since McDowell established his residence in Ashville he feels that in accordance with the opinion expressed he should resign. He thanked the Mayor for having had the opportunity of serving the community in that capacity.

Four Boys Drift to Deaths on Ice Cakes in Boston Harbor; Six Saved

BOSTON, Jan. 16—Police today dragged South Boston Bay for the bodies of three of the four boys who drifted to their deaths on ice cake rafts in one of the grimmest and most dramatic harbor tragedies in recent years. Six others were rescued.

The dead were Joseph P. Curry, Jr., 16, whose body was recovered; Charles Kendall, 10; Wallace Whitehouse, 12, and his brother, Ralph Whitehouse, 8.

The boys were swept out towards the sea and drowned by the incoming tide while playing on the ice cakes which had been strewn along the shore by the previous outgoing tide.

As they played, the tide began coming in. The ice slowly began to float and broke up into huge chunks. The boys seemed to be unaware that the currents created by the incoming tide were sweeping them slowly seaward.

Before they realized their predicament, the boys were well beyond their depths. Each soon found himself on an individual ice-cake raft. The blocks were gradually breaking up or chipping off into smaller sections as they drifted away from shore.

Boys Terrified

The terrified boys sprawled on their stomachs on the ice-cakes, afraid to leap into the swirling sea and waiting in vain for rescue.

Police and private rescue boats snatched four of the others to safety. Two others with presence of mind jumped into shallow water and swam to shore.

Young Curry was the first of the victims to slip from his ever-shrinking ice-cake and drown.

The other boys soon were forced to do likewise, slipping into the sea before the rescue boats could reach them.

Warning Brother

Ironically enough, Curry had gone to the beach to warn his brother not to venture onto the ice because it was too dangerous. He stayed instead to join the others and lost his life.

CHILLICOTHE MAYOR RUNS FOR CLAYPOOL'S OFFICE

The 11th Ohio Congressional district, Tuesday, had its first avowed candidate for the seat now held by Harold Claypool, Chillicothe, Mayor Harold Brown of the Ross County seat announced that he would be a candidate and that he expected to be opposed by Mr. Claypool.

He has put his petition in circulation.

Brown, a Republican, was re-elected by a great margin when he ran for his second term as mayor.

The 11th district comprises Pickaway, Ross, Fairfield, Hocking and Perry Counties.

FARLEY INSISTS ONLY EMERGENCY WILL PUT ROOSEVELT IN RACE

NEW YORK, Jan. 16—President Roosevelt will not be a candidate for a third term unless he is drafted by the Democratic national convention because of a grave national emergency, Postmaster General James A. Farley was reported today to have told a class in American politics at Columbia University.

Farley would not give his opinion on the question of whether such drafting appeared likely at present, it was understood. Only regular members of the class were permitted to attend the closed session at which Farley spoke.

Roosevelt To Send Notes To Garner, Bankhead Advising Steps

By International News Service

President Roosevelt stepped directly into the Russo-Finnish war situation today, with revelation that he will send letters to Vice President John N. Garner and Speaker William B. Bankhead proposing "material relief" for Finland.

With advance information lacking, Washington awaited with interest disclosure of exactly what form the proposed "material relief" will take.

Meanwhile, in Finland, Soviet war planes hammered at cities and towns, causing widespread destruction and numerous deaths as they continued their campaign of aerial terror. But intensely cold weather brought operations on the Karelian and Eastern War Fronts to a virtual halt.

In the Far North near Petsamo, however, there were signs that the Russians were preparing for another major offensive, probably to get underway when the weather is more favorable.

At least 20 cities and towns, including Viborg, were hit by bombs in the latest Russian air raids.

TRAIL OF DEATH FOLLOWS RAIDS BY BIG PLANES

Half Of Ekenaes Levelled By Attackers; 30 Killed In Shelter At Abo

Urgent Need For Pursuit Craft Cited; Weather Halts Troop Moves

HELSINKI, Jan. 16—Russian air raids left a trail of death and destruction in more than 20 Finnish cities and towns today while bitter cold descended over the country, virtually halting military operations on the Karelian and Eastern Fronts.

The cities attacked by Russian planes included Viborg (Viipuri), the country's second largest metropolis, and the southwestern port of Turku.

About 400 Soviet planes rained bombs on houses and streets, killing and wounding scores of persons—most of them women, according to Finnish authorities.

At Ekenaes 400 out of the town's 700 houses were destroyed.

The port of Hangoe in the South was bombed almost constantly, and today 11 major fires are still raging.

Abo was badly damaged, and one bomb made a direct hit on a raid shelter, killing all its occupants, numbering about 30.

Finnish authorities charged that no military objectives were reached, and asserted the Russians were merely seeking revenge for their military defeats.

Pursuit Planes Needed

"Give us pursuit planes!" was the cry of the Finns, who pointed out that, with only two fighting craft available at Helsinki, Russian bombers were kept away from the capital. At other points, the Finns said, only a few pursuit planes were needed to drive off the Russians.

In the Far North on the Petsamo Front there were signs that the Russians were preparing for a new major offensive as soon as (Continued on Page Two)

$500,000 ESTATE OF EX-SERVANT DIVIDED BY 10

BOSTON, Jan. 16—Remarkable for its brevity, the will of Mrs. Mary Bates Fritz Roy, once an apple-cheeked Irish immigrant servant girl, today divided a $500,000 fortune among ten relatives.

After years of service in the household of John D. Bates, wealthy realtor, Mary Clarkin was wed to him in 1895 and after his death, to Capt. Henry S. Fitz Roy of the British navy. She died last January 9.

Mrs. Fritz Roy's will was but one sentence long, merely specifying disposal of her estate among the next-of-kin according to the laws of Massachusetts. The estate once was estimated at $2,000,000 but it shrank to $500,000. After state and federal inheritance levies are collected it is expected to amount to about $400,000.

Beneficiaries include John J. Clarkin, Glendale, Cal.; Thomas F. Clarkin, Scranton, Pa.; Sister Christine (Kathleen E. Clarkin), St. Patrick's convent, Scranton; Mary M. Clarkin, Tobyhanna, Pa., and Margaret M. Barlieb, Tobyhanna.

The weather permits. Russian planes in that area subjected Finnish communications to severe bombing assaults.

On the Salla Front two Russian divisions were reported still holding out and some reports stated they were advancing. Finnish patrols there were reported concentrating on hand-grenade attacks against Soviet field kitchens.

The two divisions of Russians on the Salla Front were described in dispatches as crack Soviet effective forces from the Ukraine, well trained and equipped and far superior to any other Soviet forces seen in Finland.

They have dug in, these reports said, and are defending themselves vigorously against Finnish attacks. Soviet artillery, however, has been withdrawn from the Salla Front, probably to prevent it from being captured by Finnish ski raiders.

200 Bombs in Turku

The Soviet air raids covered most of southern Finland, and in Turku alone 200 bombs were dropped.

Everywhere, it was stated, the Russians dropped equal quantities of high explosive and incendiary bombs.

Twenty-one Russian planes bombed Viborg several times, dropping a score of 500-pound bombs and many smaller ones. Ten houses were burned and ten others destroyed. The number of killed and wounded was not learned.

After the attacks, residents of the city immediately began repairing the damages. Fire brigades extinguished the flames. One family alone lost four houses and two business buildings.

Other cities which suffered were Björkö, Humajoki and Wasa, where eight were killed and many wounded.

In Viborg volunteers cleared the streets of wreckage and aided in facilitating removal of the wounded to hospital by ambulance.

Store windows were shattered by the explosions in the raids which continued for three hours.

Authorities in Helsinki expressed the view that the Russians were trying to conquer Finland by a campaign of terror following the Soviet military defeats on the Eastern Front.

400 Planes Used

Official statistics of last week's air bombings stated that 400 Russian planes roared over the country on several days in succession, dropping 2,000 bombs on 42 different localities, many of which were raided several times.

The statistics said 18 persons were killed and 93 injured, most of them women residents of working class districts.

Aaland Island was bombed but the damage there was small, the announcement said, adding that the number of Russian planes shot down exceeded the number of Finns killed by the raids.

COURT OVERRULES MOVE MADE IN FULLER ESTATE

Probate Judge Lemuel Weldon, Monday overruled the four petitions brought by Clara V. Fuller against the estate of David O. Fuller questioning some of the legal aspects of a separation and division of property that both parties agreed to before the death of Mr. Fuller.

The four petitions filed by Mrs. Fuller asked (1) the removal of the administrator, (2) reinstatement of claims totaling $901.98, (3) review of year's allowance, (4) request for exceptions to inventory.

No application for appeal has been filed, but one is expected, the judge said. The separation of Mr. and Mrs. Fuller was consummated shortly before his death on August 20, 1938.

COUPLE ARRESTED FOR REGISTERING FALSELY

Invading the New American Hotel at 5:15 a. m. Tuesday, three police officers arrested O. M. Newman and Louise Heygar charging them with false registration.

The register was signed by Newman as "Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Newman, Johnson City, Tennessee." Newman admitted at police headquarters that his home is at Duval and the woman's home is in Columbus.

Newman, 21, is unmarried, while the woman, age 29, is married, but does not live with her husband. Both are being held in County Jail pending hearing Tuesday evening.

Alva Shastan, Elmer Merriman and George Green were arresting officers.

Opposing the candidacy of Gov. Long are four independents.

Sam Jones, 42-year-old Lake Charles attorney, is advocating a reform program. Backed by a majority of Louisiana's press, Jones sounded the keynote of his campaign when he said:

"The only issue in this campaign is honesty in government."

James Noy, state senator and personal friend of the late Huey, also is advocating reform. He has charged that the present administration has not been faithful to the ideals of Huey.

James Morrison, 32-year-old Hammond attorney, has been violently anti-administration. He has charged wholesale graft and corruption and promised that he'll "put all the thieves" in jail.

Vincent Moseley, quiet spoken Opelousas attorney, conducted his campaign along Utopian lines.

ANNUAL C. OF C. MEETING TO BE TUESDAY, JAN. 30

Annual meeting of the Circleville Chamber of Commerce will be conducted Tuesday evening, January 30, at which time the result of election of 11 directors will be disclosed. The board is being increased from seven, now in office, to 11 for the new year. Nominations of 22 men will be announced later to the entire membership of the Chamber.

The names will be sent to all members of the organization, a mail vote being used to determine the election.

The Chamber at its meeting Tuesday decides to increase annual dues from $12.50 to $15.

DIFFERENCES OF OPINION CITED BY HORE-BELISHA

LONDON, Jan. 16.—Differences of "opinion, outlook, temperament and understanding" among his colleagues at the war office were virtually admitted by Leslie Hore-Belisha today in a statement to the House of Commons explaining his resignation.

He insisted, however, that these differences sprang from zeal and single-minded determination to win the war against Hitlerism.

Loudly cheered by all sections of the house Hore-Belisha said: "I have no thought but to win the war, and must be guided by that overriding consideration."

NAZI PLANES MASSED

LONDON, Jan. 16.—One thousand and German bombing planes reportedly are massed at Emden, opposite the northeastern corner of Holland, the London Daily Telegraph stated today in a dispatch from Amsterdam.

against alleged Soviet aerial violations of their neutral territories.

At the same time both nations made it clear that they are not disposed to bow before Soviet pressure that they cease their aid to Finland, while preserving neutrality under international law.

In a dispatch from Finland, meanwhile, the London Daily Express reported the existence of an "American Brigade" and published an interview with two of its members, Arthur William of the Bronx, New York, and Lawrence Heidebrand of Detroit, Mich.

While fighting in the European war approached a standstill, the British government in a note to the president of Panama declined to recognize the 300-mile security belt around the Americas unless effective measures are taken to keep German vessels out of the neutrality area.

The British government reserved "full belligerent rights" until it is "able to feel assured that the scheme will operate satisfactorily."

Hore-Belisha Scheduled

In the House of Commons today, former British War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha, whose dismissal caused a political storm, was to explain the reasons for his requested resignation.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain also was slated to make a statement on the governmental shake-up that resulted in departure of Hore-Belisha and former Information Minister Lord Macmillan from the government.

Germany's communique on war developments stated there were "no worthwhile events on the Western Front" but claimed two British submarines had been destroyed. The French communique said merely: "nothing to report."

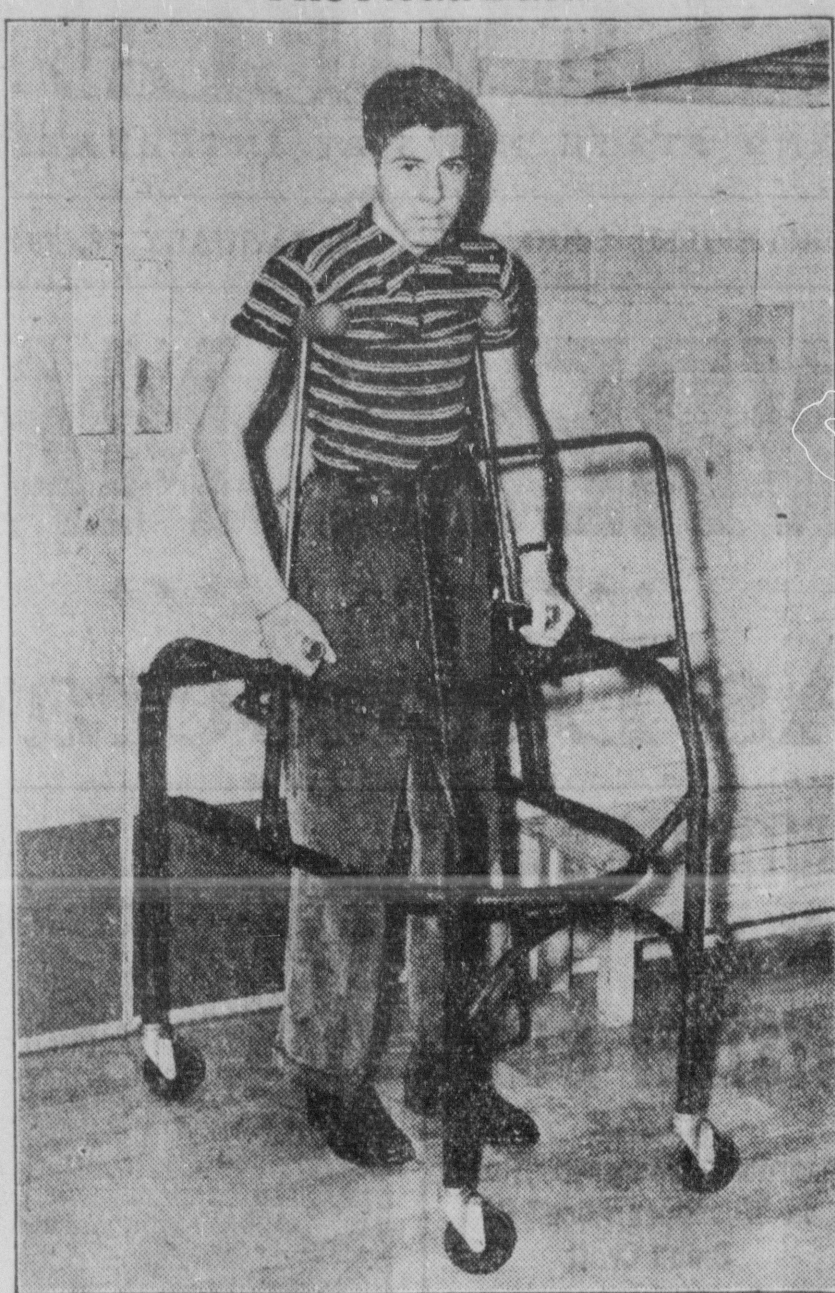

In France, the government began to make it plain that it considers Russia as well as Germany an enemy of the Allies. A government controlled French radio broadcast stated that any German attack against Holland or Belgium would be supported by Russian pressure against Norway and Sweden.

G-MAN EXPECTS MORE ARRESTS

Judge Grover Moscovitz could have carried out a plot of such grandiose proportions, Chief G-Man J. Edgar Hoover took a serious view of the arrests.

"We have evidence to substantiate every claim we have made," Hoover declared after a lengthy conference with his aides in New York FBI headquarters.

Hoover charged the plot called for the assassination of 14 congressmen and the bombing or seizure of navy yards, arsenals, armories, bridges, public utilities, customs houses, federal reserve banks and mints. To accomplish this, it was charged, the men had assembled a motley arsenal of arms and ammunition, much of which, it was believed, was stolen from National Guard armories.

William Gerald Bishop, 37, named by Hoover as the leader of the group, emerged as the mysterious man of the investigation. Hoover alleged he was born in Vienna and had been thrice deported both by England and Belgium but New York police listed him as William Arneek, a Nazi propagandist, who had served 60 days on a charge of violating the Sullivan law regulating the use of firearms. He was later taken to Ellis Island for deportation, according to New York police, but succeeded in remaining in this country when he convinced authorities he was born in Salem, Mass.

Having worked out $25.50 of his fine, he was released on his promise to pay $10 per month until the fine has completely been paid. The balance is now $174.50.

FAIR AND COLD WEATHER SEEN FOR OHIO AREA

By International News Service
Another siege of winter weather was in prospect for Ohio today as thermometer readings as low as nine degrees were recorded, while forecasters could see no relief in sight.

Generally fair and colder weather was predicted for today, with snow and continued cold forecast for tomorrow.

Heavy snows were reported in the Cleveland, Chardon, and Akron areas, with snow flurries at East Liverpool, Geneva, Ashtabula and Coshocton.

However, the highway patrol reported all roads open, even those in Washington and Geauga counties that were blocked yesterday by high water.

Readings of 14 degrees were recorded generally throughout the state, including Columbus, Cleveland, Akron, and Dayton. Cambridge and East Liverpool reported 15 degrees, while at Cincinnati the mercury stayed at the 19-degree mark.

A heavy snowstorm that hit Cleveland early today failed to affect transportation schedules seriously, although traffic in the city itself was slowed. Airplane traffic was normal, and busses and trains were reported running on time or slightly late.

JUDGE REFUSES VENUE CHANGE IN PIKE TRIALS

COLUMBUS, Jan. 16.—Common Pleas Judge Fred H. Wolf, of Fulton County, has refused to grant the state a change of venue in the trial of 14 persons accused of election irregularities in Pike County, Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert announced today.

Herbert requested the change several weeks ago after a Pike County jury acquitted one of the defendants of election fraud charges. At the time Judge Wolf took the appeal under consideration.

The jurist held that the state did not have the right to a change of venue in criminal cases.

FEDERAL JURY MEETS TO AIR SPY EVIDENCE

Activities By Subversive Elements In Numerous Centers Checked

MURPHY HEADING PROBE

Publishing Firms On Spot As 500 Are Impaneled For Selection

WASHINGTON, Jan. 16 — A special grand jury to receive wholesale evidence of espionage, sabotage and other illegal activities of foreign agents was convened in the capital today.

Described by Department of Justice officials as the most important move to date in the government's campaign against law violations by representatives of foreign nations, the special jury was expected to devote all its time to espionage and related cases.

Formation of the jury was one of the last major steps directed by Attorney General Frank Murphy in his vigorous anti-foreign agent drive. Senate confirmation of Murphy's appointment to the supreme court is probable before the week is out.

Two crack assistants to the attorney-general are ready to go before the grand jury with evidence alleging attempted theft of military secrets, use of fraudulent passports, and failure to register with the state department on the part of numerous individuals and firms.

Many Persons Named

The two attorneys — Henry G. O'Donnell and Floyd M. Rett said among those to be investigated were Robert Minor, Israel Amter, Alex Trachtenberg, A. A. Heller, Rebecca Grecht, Joseph Brodsky, Wallace E. Douglas, J. N. Golos, International Publishers, Inc., World Tourists, Inc., and Workers Library Publishers, Inc.

Of the individuals, the better known are Minor and Amter, perennial candidates for political office on the Communist party ticket; Trachtenberg, long-time alleged Communist publicist, and Joseph Brodsky, attorney for Earl Browder, Communist party 1936 presidential candidate about to be tried for violation of the passport laws.

The two New York publishing firms purportedly are distribution points for Communist literature, the justice department said. Trachtenberg is reported to be director of International Publishers.

More than 500 men and women were impaneled by the court, with 23 to be chosen for membership on the grand jury. Quick action by the jury is expected. The regular federal grand jury a few weeks ago lost little time in returning indictments against several alleged Communist agents and a Soviet publishing firm.

MCCRADY SPEAKS AGAIN ABOUT USE OF AIRGUNS

Police Chief W. F. McCrady, reiterated a warning to parents whose children have airguns after officials of the Norfolk & Western railroad informed police Monday afternoon that someone shot an airgun through a glass window of afternoon westbound passenger train. The act was committed between Main and Mound Streets, the chief was informed.

Angered by the violation of the city ordinance, he said: "Airguns must not be shot inside city limits. Any person found using one in the city may expect to have his gun taken away and may be expected to be brought into police court."

LAND AT ORIENT FARM USED FOR GAME PROGRAM

Commissioner Don Waters Discusses Conservation Office Plans

PROPAGATION ARRANGED Rabbits Being Imported From West; Popularity Of Sport Cited

State Institutional lands, like Orient in Pickaway County and Apple Creek, in Wayne County, are playing an important part in the state wide rabbit replacement program that Don Waters, conservation commissioner, has put into action.

The rabbits are being trapped in game refuges and other closed areas to be liberated in open hunting country to provide seed stock for the coming season and better hunting for 1940. A truck load of rabbits, the by-product of a pheasant farm at Urbana, has been trapped and liberated.

Releases are being made in the counties where they are needed most and where food and cover is available.

Game protectors and game management agents have been using the 4,000 traps built in the Columbus and Dayton NYA shops.

Supplementing the state program, sportsman's clubs are importing rabbits from the West although Commissioner Waters believes that native Ohio rabbits are more satisfactory for stocking purposes than the western breeds. Such supplementing is done with special permission of the conservation department.

"The rabbit is the most popular game animal in Ohio," Commissioner Waters said. "It is the big game of the small boy." Of Ohio's hunters' license money 65 percent comes from the rabbit hunters, the commissioner claimed.

HIGH BOND SET FOR 'SLASHER'

Kentuckian Held In Jail On Three Charges After Hearing Before Mayor

Mayor W. B. Cady placed James Dowdy of Ashland, Ky., in the Pickaway County jail, Monday, under bonds totalling $5,000 to await grand jury action on charges including grand larceny and cutting with intent to kill. Dowdy was arrested early Sunday after he took the topcoat of Dean White, West Mound Street, valued at $35. He slashed Orval and Everett Murphy, Ironton, O., brothers, after he was lodged in the city jail. He blamed the Murphys for telling police that he had intended to steal White's automobile with keys that were in the coat pocket. Both Murphys were treated in Berger Hospital for back cuts. Dowdy allegedly using a razor blade that he had hidden in his shoe to slash them.

Dowdy, who pleaded guilty, was placed under $1,000 bond on the larceny charge and $2,000 each on the cutting with intent to kill complaints. He was unable to provide bond.

TWO FINED $100 AFTER POLICE PROBE ACTIONS

Nelson Walters, 41, 432 South Pickaway Street, and Edith Gussinger, 40, Lancaster, were arrested Sunday night at McComiss' Rooming House, W. Main Street, and charged with false registration.

Although Miss Gussinger pleaded not guilty to the charge of violating a statutory charge, she admitted she is unmarried, but denied any knowledge that the register at the rooming house was signed "Mr. and Mrs." Police say they had been in the rooming house for nearly a week.

Arresting Officers Fred Fitzpatrick and Alva Shasteen said the situation at the time of arrest was indicative of a violation of the statute.

Walters, who according to police, had been drinking heavily, fainted Monday afternoon when Mayor William B. Cady found him guilty and fined him $100 and costs. Miss Gussinger received a similar fine and was warned not to return to Circleville.

Mrs. Walters posted a check for the amount of the fine while

NAZI MONEY

As the Nazi government plunges from one rash adventure to another, two questions become more and more urgent. What will they use for food? And what will they use for money? They exhaust their man-power and material resources in ever-widening warfare, and their victories and seizures have brought them only new responsibilities and expense.

So far, they seem to have kept their money at face value within Germany by fiat, even though there is little or no gold in the treasury for a sound basis. The mark is only good at home, and outsiders with credits against Germany must take German goods for pay or else go there to spend the money. It is doubtful if there is another important country in the world whose currency has so weak a foundation.

Now it seems likely to be weakened still further. A plan is being considered whereby workers' wages would be paid "in the form of promissory notes." This may appear as a curious scheme even to the Germans themselves. Their present money is mere unsupported paper. It looks like promising to fulfill one promise with another promise.

When the debacle comes, and Germany is overcome again by superior force as it probably will be, the German people will be ruined again by all that worthless paper.

SPRING HATS IN HELSINKI

WINDOW displays in Helsinki shops these days consist of pictures clipped from magazines and pasted on the rough boards with which the windows are protected against air raids. Business goes on behind the boards as usual. One even reads of spring hats advertised in milliner's windows. Spring hats announced in January indicate confidence that spring will come and Finland will still be Finland. The correspondent who found the cheerful hat advertising reported further that all the repair jobs—plyboard in bomb-shattered windows, boarding up and sand-bagging and other measures—have been carried out neatly. Even in its present troubled life Helsinki looks neater and cleaner than many thriving cities in other countries in peace time.

Sticklers for accuracy are always taking the joy out of life. Now they're saying that the peanut isn't a nut at all, but a bean—and who wants to eat a bean?

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to the howl of a lamenting dog, but never did learn why the lament, for when I reached the yard the animal was gone. Did note the return of below-freezing weather that rode in on howling wind during the night.

Franklin Kibler, smiling in his new job as promotion man for Eschelman, dropped into the plant bearing a can of that firm's brand new Red Rose dog food, the very first off production line. Will try that out on the pup. Morris Boggs brought in publicity on the "Fighting 69th" film, a picture based on the war history of the 165th infantry, of which Morris was a member.

Pete Neff and Printer Duffey each brought in a dollar to swell the fund I soon will be sending on to help those Finns who are doing such a swell job in kicking the Reds around. Read about that Christian Front Society and said some very unchristian things about the persons who are dumb enough to believe that the dictator type of government surpasses that of ours. Probably the worst form of punishment that could be meted out to the agitators would be to set them down in Russia or Germany. Those men would be "liquidated" in any other land than the United States, but here they will get off with little or no real punishment.

It happened during the recent hearing before the civil service commission. The commission is composed of men who are not attorneys and, according to law, they are permitted a legal adviser. Joe Adkins was acting in that capacity and Harry Bartholomew was presiding for the commission. The defense objected to a question put by the prosecution. "What should I do?" Harry asked of Joe in a whisper. "Sustain the objection," said Joe and Harry said, "Sustained." Came other questions and each time Joe was asked for an opinion that would be repeated by Harry. Then a particularly tricky question was asked by one of the attorneys and Harry once more turned to Joe. "What should I do now?" he asked. "Punt," said Joe and Harry repeated "Punt" right after him.

Was called to the Betz restaurant where a great Florida salt water fish awaited me, a gift from Ernest Crites, Ham Rogers, Simon Stout and W. J. Goodman, who are avoiding our cold weather. Ernie wrote the letter that accompanied a big shipment of fish for local distribution and he said that the day before he was in a party of 12 that caught 800 pounds of fish and that he won second prize for the day with a twenty-seven pounder. It is funny to see the local fishermen trying to figure out the names of the fish they received. Mine may be a baby whale for all I know, but it looks like a real eating fish.

Miller Fissell is ready to take up his duties with the police department. There's a real addition to our force. He is honest, fearless and impartial, real qualifications for enforcement duties. Good luck to him and congratulations to the ville on obtaining his services.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

GARNER FAVORS LYNCH BILL VOTE
WASHINGTON — The big behind-the-scenes sensation in the battle over the anti-lynching bill is inside word that Vice President Jack Garner favors allowing the measure to come to a vote in the Senate.

Inability to get a vote on the Senate floor is the only thing that has blocked enactment of this legislation for years. In the last big fight over anti-lynching in 1937, there was an over-whelming majority in the Senate for the bill. But its sponsors were unable to force a vote. A determined Southern filibuster lasting nearly six weeks barred action, and in the end the bill was junked.

Garner gave the filibusters potent undercover aid in the 1937 struggle. Throughout his long congressional career he has always been against anti-lynching legislation—and still is. He considers the bill now passed by the House to be un-sound and impractical.

But with his sombrero in the presidential ring, he has changed his tune to the extent of permitting a showdown vote. That's an important concession because only a vote is needed to put the measure on the statute books.

However, there is no inside indication that Garner's stand will produce results. None of the other southern leaders has been won over. They are just as adamant against a vote as in the past.

Garner's fellow Texan, Senator Tom Connally, floor general of the 1937 battle, also is a candidate this year—but not for the presidency. Tom is up for re-election and has his eye glued on Texas—not the nation. He is out to resist a showdown vote on anti-lynching just as vehemently as he did three years ago. Connally's vigorous Southern backing means that the bill hasn't a chance. After a few weeks of filibuster it will again be pigeon-holed.

NOTE:—Also doomed is Pat Harrison's resolution, passed by the Senate, for a joint committee to study government income and outgo in order to keep within the budget. House leaders view the proposal as a Senate attempt to rule the budget roost, will pigeon-hole it in committee.

"HOT" COAT

Things were going pleasantly at former Attorney General Homer Cummings' cocktail party until James V. Bennett suddenly announced that his overcoat was missing.

Guests blinked in horror. The thought that someone would have the temerity to pinch the coat of so awesome an individual as the Chief of the U. S. Bureau of Prisons was hair-raising. A frantic search was begun for the vanished coat and the reckless culprit. Both were soon found.

A young newsman, who had partaken too freely of Cummings' potent hospitality, had mistaken Bennett's coat for his own. He was nonchalantly wearing it as he made his adieu. Apprised of the situation, the reporter remarked, "I thought this one felt sort of warmer than mine."

"Warm!" quipped Gordon Dean, ace lawyer of the Anti-Trust Division. "Boy, for a few minutes you had on the 'hottest' overcoat in the country!"

Pseudo-Appendicitis: Menace of Mankind

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ECONOMIC philosophers have repeatedly pointed out that modern life is getting to be too much for the average human nervous system to stand. Gunpowder is the extreme example. Gunpowder should never have been invented; 99.9 per cent of mankind simply hasn't enough character to be allowed to play with gunpowder. The automobile is another; at least one-third of the people who are driving automobiles are incapable of doing so safely.

The discovery of appendicitis was a dangerous thing for certain types of intellect. It became a popular word and is associated with a disease causing pain in the right lower part of the abdomen. This knowledge has proved too much for many people.

Pseudo-Appendicitis

According to a physician at the Mayo Clinic, the second commonest functional trouble of the digestive apparatus is 'pseudo-appendicitis'. Nervous men and women complain of mild pain or soreness in the region of the appendix. Some feel as if they should be reaching down to hold up the abdomen with the hand. Often the distress comes on at intervals, mimicking attacks of acute appendicitis.

That the pain originates in the mind is proved by cases on record in which the appendix has been removed and the pain persisted. In the operation all the nerve pathways from the appendix region are severed, so the pain must be projected from the brain or the mind.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, in care of this paper. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

SYNOPSIS

THE CHARACTERS:
ROMANY HAILLE, who wants to be a radio star.
CHOLLY O'NEIL, her pal, who plays in a music store.
BRENT NELSON, successful young announcer.
TERRY O'ROURKE, who has a weakness for Cholly and for liquor.
BAXTER TREE, a continuity writer without a job.
YESTERDAY: Bax offers to teach Romany something about radio technique.

CHAPTER FOUR

BAXTER arrived at the advertising agency several minutes before Romany. The girl at the desk motioned him to go into the recording room. He passed through a crowd of actresses and actors that might have been a Broadway convention.

Representing every age and class of the show business, they stood around in little groups complaining or bragging. A great many of them had been vaudeville headliners, while others had been well-known Broadway leading men and women or bit players. Most of them declared they hated Chicago.

Baxter entered the control room with fast-beating heart. It was a thrill to see the director of radio for the Byrd-Cromwell agency, a tremendously high-salaried youth in his late twenties, sitting smoking a cigaret. Things were really going to start moving at last!

"Miller hasn't arrived, I see."

Bax shook hands with Bob Lane.

Miller was the director he'd been promised for "Paradise Is Here." He was perhaps the only man in Chicago whom Baxter felt sure would be able to bring out the spiritual quality of his brain child and make of it the thing of beauty he wanted it to be.

Lane crushed his cigaret.

"None, Tree, I'm afraid Stan Miller is out. Too busy. But Cain Delacarte here will do a swell job, I'm sure. Have you two met?"

Bax hid his disappointment with difficulty. A swarthy little man looked up from a bunch of scripts and nodded cryptically:

"How do?"

Baxter acknowledged the greeting, but before he had time to do so Delacarte had resumed his perusal of the scripts. Lane grinned, motioning for Baxter to sit down. He did so, miserably. Delacarte, a large black pencil in his hand, was crossing out lines and writing in others. Bax, winching, asked:

"How do you like the show, Mr. Delacarte? Or have you had a chance to read it?"

"Read it? Hell! I've rewritten it!"

Baxter grew a little pale, and looked to Lane for encouragement.

"Who," Delacarte asked him sarcastically, "ever told you you could write dialogue? And why didn't you learn a little about business before you started trying to sell dramatic shows?"

Bob Lane laughed.

"You'll have to get used to Cain, Tree. He spares no punches."

"So I see," Bax said quietly.

"What have you directed, Mr. Delacarte? I'm afraid I've never heard of you before."

"That makes us even." The dark face cracked open in an unattractive grin. "I've never heard of you, either."

"Cain does a couple of shows for us," Lane stepped in. "Very successful ones, too. 'The Adventures of Uncle Kip' and 'Aces of the Clouds'."

"I see," Bax by that time was feeling a little sick. "Kid stuff."

Delacarte grew slowly red around the collar. When he looked up, his black eyes were definitely unfriendly.

"Yeah," he sneered. "Kid stuff! And so lousy I'm makin' over seven hundred bucks a week. So what?"

Before Bax could assemble an answer, Lane got up, laughing again:

"Let's go into the studio a while. Tree, I think it's getting a little warm in here."

"I don't get it, Lane," he began. "I thought you agreed with me that 'Paradise' needed someone who would appreciate—"

Lane held up his hand:

"Don't blame me, Tree. I'm only the head of the radio department. Delacarte spent the week-end at the big boss' country place and I guess Byrd decided his old drinking pal, Cain, was having a hard struggle trying to get along on two shows. Anyway, this morning he told me to let him have your baby. Delacarte's going to marry a singer with two kids Saturday and I guess with the new mouths to feed it's going to be hard to make both ends meet."

Bax found Romany standing in a far corner watching the crowd.

"I see your position," Bax said with an effort. "But God help poor old 'Paradise'!"

From the studio Baxter could look into the control room and see Delacarte frowning and slashing away at his brain child. He writhed inwardly. Lane, seeing his discomfort, told him without smiling:

"You're young in this business, Tree. You must learn to take little things like this in your stride. The important thing is to get the show on. Maybe it won't sound like your show when it does, but you'll have an income of four or five hundred dollar a week. That's all that counts, really."

"That's important," Bax agreed. "But I don't like to assume the responsibility for that guy's waiting job."

"When Delacarte gets through with your little effort, it'll be a carbon copy of all the other ghastly five-day-a-week dramatic shows we've got. No doubt. But if he didn't make it that way a sponsor would probably be afraid to buy it because it'd be too much like pioneering."

"You make me feel like going out and getting a job with the WPA," sighed Bax.

"Above everything," Lane said kindly, "learn to hold your temper and your tongue. Between ourselves, I hate Delacarte's insides. But I wouldn't let him know it because he's in too good with the boss. I make the imbecile think he's funny. If he gets down on you, he can do you a lot of harm."

"Thanks for the tip," Baxter smiled. "It's swell of you to bother so much with me."

"Say!" Lane lit a cigaret. "Don't thank me. I've got ideas about the kind of writing job I'd like to see done for the air, too. I like your work. Some day I think we will probably be able to get together and turn out something that doesn't smell quite so badly. But we'll both have to wait for the revolution, I'm afraid."

Lane grinned, getting up:

"I guess we might as well call in the gang that's to be auditioned and get a load of Delacarte's rewrite job."

Baxter sighed hopelessly. Then he remembered Romany.

"Hello, Glamour Gal," he greeted her with a hand shake. "I'm sorry to have kept you waiting."

"Oh, think nothing of it," Romany smiled sweetly. "After all, you are the author."

"Am I?" Bax half grinned. "Wait'll you see the hen tracks a so-called director has made on my script and you won't think so. Sit tight and keep very quiet in the control room. I'm told that's the thing to do. I'll tell you the worst later. Will you have dinner with me?"

"But certainly," Romany said delightedly. "Honored, Mr. Shakespeare."

Brent Nelson, near the desk, saw Romany going into the studio. He smiled with amusement. It hadn't taken the little Hail to meet an author and get into the inner sanctum of Byrd-Cromwell. But why should it? If ever a girl had everything, the girl with the unforgettable big gray-green eyes had. He'd thought of her many times since his interview with her the evening before.

And, he decided, he was going to know her better. He would go in and invite her to have dinner with him. He had another engagement, but that could be broken.

It dips in one large scallop at the waist, where it is thrice-buttoned. Persian muff bag and a matching fur hat add chic and luxurious appeal to the coat. In fact, it is the popularity of fur accessories which has helped the fur-trimmed cloth coat reach a new high in appeal this season.

Kiwanians Hear Stirring Address As Feature Of Anniversary Program

"The Government is an altar upon which to make some sacrifice rather than a trough from which to feed," Judge Dana Reynolds of the Franklin County Common Pleas Court ringingly told the members of the Kiwanis Club as they gathered Monday to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the club's service.

Taking that as his theme, Judge Reynolds reminded the members of the debt that each owes the nation for what he has received from it. That that debt should be remembered he recalled the words of Thomas Paine — "What we obtain too cheaply we esteem too lightly."

Then the Judge asked the rhetorical question, "Has Kiwanis been worthwhile?"

"If it promised merely what it has accomplished, then it has been worthwhile. But Kiwanis has not been satisfied and continually reaches forth to higher and better things. People have too little appreciation of things they have. We must not take too much for granted," he answered.

Nation's Destroying

"Our motto is 'We Build.' But across the waters we see whole nations occupied not in building, but in destroying land, lives, governments, works of art, but worst of all, their faith—their faith in their fellowmen, their countries and, above all, the Supreme Being.

"We must, then, continue to build—build character, communities and better citizenship," Judge Reynolds intently remarked.

He warned the members against those who come here and under the protection of our laws try to destroy them. Judge Reynolds pointed the truth in the Aesop fable of the viper which after being frozen in the snow, bit the hand of the farmer that warmed him.

"I hope that I live to see the day when all those that come here to destroy are sent back from whence they came," he cried. "This country has been a haven and a refuge and those who sought refuge served it well, but those others are like the frozen vipers. We must destroy them and fight hard to keep the form of government our forefathers have struggled so hard to attain."

"Where, you ask, does Kiwanis fit into the picture?" the Judge continued. "It is our task to make other people aware of the true responsibility of citizenship so that the blessings guaranteed by our forefathers may be given to those who are to follow so that this nation may be a democracy of the people and for the people as long as time endures."

Spirit of Sacrifice

Stressing the spirit of sacrifice that should be inculcated in the youth of the nation, the Judge spoke of the Athenian code that was administered when boys reached their 18th year. "If every American youth could be taught to believe that this is a better country because he lived, what a greater nation this would be and what a greater community Circleville would become."

"Let us join hands and shoulder to shoulder march forward to teach the true responsibilities of citizenship, to teach those coming after so that the things we enjoy can be enjoyed by those following."

Here Judge Reynolds spoke of the freedoms enjoyed in this nation which no other nation on the face of the earth does.

"We can criticize our rulers and we do; we can criticize our law makers—and we do; we can criticize all our governmental agencies. But we must pay the debt we owe to those who have gone before."

"Then we can go forward with the strength of our leadership and be a militant force for better understanding of our responsibilities. But we must pay our debt!" Judge Reynolds concluded.

Judge Reynolds' address was heard by the club and some former members of the club who were invited for the silver anniversary meeting. He spoke following dinner served at 6:30 o'clock in the American Hotel "Hurricane."

For the first time in popular music, a recording has been re-issued. Back in 1930 Kay Kyser made a platter of "Ma, He's Making Eyes At Me." This year the same recording has been re-issued. And it looks as if it will be a best-seller again.

WOMEN IN '40's

Read This Important Message! Do you dread those "trying years" (35 to 45)? Are you getting moody, cranky and NERVOUS? Do you fear hot flashes, weakening dizzy spells? Are you jealous of attention other women get? THEN LISTEN— These symptoms often result from female functional disorders. So start today and take famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For over 60 years Pinkham's Compound has helped hundreds of thousands of grateful women to go "smiling thru" difficult days. Pinkham's has helped calm unstrung nerves and lessen annoying female functional "irregularities." The best known and one of the most effective "women's" tonics, in liquid or handy to carry tablet form (similar formula). Try it!

Carl Sandburg, the poet and biographer, tops one list of guests on the CBS "Pursuit of Happiness" stanza Sunday, January 21.

Horace Heidt and his orchestra, who appeared on one of the first "Young Man With a Band" program, is being set for a return engagement from Hollywood.

Fred Lowery, whistling star, has been contacted to make a set of records demonstrating how to whistle.

STARS SAY—

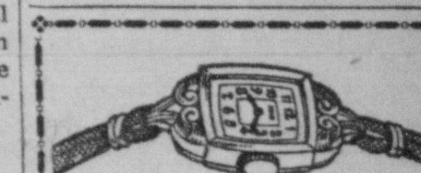

For Tuesday, January 16

THE afflicted aspects of three of the major planets may make this a difficult day. There are signs of conflicting impulses and decidedly opposite objectives, although there will be much force and enterprise to be brought to bear when plans and programs are finally decided upon. This energy may be fitful, erratic and possibly belligerent, with fluctuations between strife, turbulence and discouragement. However, there are definite auguries for composing discords and hostility by tact or strategy, but in all contracts and correspondence be alert and cautious.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year of confusion and conflict, with great difficulty in making a choice between two or more contradictory urges. The energies are under high pressure and the mind torn between two fields of operation, with alternate aggressive-depression. In writings of every nature use caution.

A child born on this day may have many conflicts of character and impulses, with much tension and initiative accompanied by gloom indecision and eccentricity. Proper training might eradicate such idiosyncrasies.

TOLEDO THUMPS B.W. TEAM BY SCORE OF 46-26

COLUMBUS, Jan. 16 — Toledo became the team to fear in Ohio basketball circles today by virtue of the surprising strength they exhibited in swamping Baldwin-Wallace, 46-24.

Coupled with their 60-50 week end victory over a highly favored Marshall quintet that previously had handed them the short end of 50-37 score, the win over Baldwin-Wallace set tongues wagging over the lads from the Maumee. Some of the prestige of Cleveland's "Big Four" was salvaged by the John Carroll cagers, who handed out a 30-25 pasting to Akron in the only other tilt scheduled.

Tigers Meet Clarksburg In Tuesday Eve Contest

Trying to break up a two-game losing streak with Wilmington and Berne Union on the long end of the last two frays, Circleville High Tigers travel to Clarksburg Tuesday evening to meet Bob Terhune's fast quintet. The reserve game is scheduled at 8 o'clock and the varsity about an hour later.

The Red and Black lost to Wilmington in a sudden death overtime fray and dropped a one-point decision to Berne Union on a foul toss that was counted after playing time had ended.

Coach Roy Black intends to make no changes in his starting lineup, deciding to string along with Smith, Davis, Walters, Staley and Bowsher, but he has indicated that Jim Callahan may be inserted in the lineup at almost any time and that some of his younger guards may be given a chance to show how well they can play under fire.

Hammon on Bench

Coach Terhune, a Circleville visitor Monday evening, said that his boys would be forced to perform without the services of Bob Hamman, star forward, who has a foot injury. Hamman has been pairing with tall Joe Ater in producing most of Clarksburg's points and his loss will be felt by the Burgers who are leading the Ross County loop with an unblemished slate. Terhune said that he plays Frankfort Friday evening in an important game and that even if Hamman might show much improvement during the day that he would probably save him for the Frankfort contest.

The Tiger varsity plays Hilliards, speedy Franklin class A team, in the Circleville Athletic Club gymnasium Friday evening. On Wednesday the reserves go out to Fox to play Carroll Woodruff's Jackson Township varsity.

County Tilts Vital
Pickaway County games this week include Scioto at Wanut, New Holland at Darby, with the girls' contest to be watched; Pickaway at Perry, Washington at Salt Creek, and Ashville at Monroe, with second place in the boys' race at stake.

Games in the City League will be played Thursday night this week because of the New York Renaissance exhibition scheduled for Wednesday night. The Rens are expected to jam the C. A. C. gymnasium. Thursday will be known as Glitt Food Market night, many gifts being presented to persons who attend the games. The contests this week include Western Auto Supply vs. Eshelman Feeds, John Deere Tractors vs. Stout's Pure Oil, Purina Chows vs. Wallace Bakery, and Caskey Celaners vs. Glitt's Food Market.

Pickaway Township will play Deer Creek Wednesday evening on the Pirate court, the game being moved up because of the tournament dates.

Ohio State's Captain Bob Lynch Pegs Bucket That Brings Victory

PURDUE LEADING LOOP

Wolves Fall As Illinois Team Pulls Surprise Of Night's Play

COLUMBUS, Jan. 16—Although forced on several occasions to come from behind, Ohio State University's cagers continued their up-hill climb on the comeback trail today by marking in the record books a thrilling 32-31 win over a highly-favored Northwestern quintet.

Nearly 4,000 fans yelled themselves hoarse as the count was knotted 11 times, with first one team and then the other assuming a narrow lead. A strip by Buck Captain Bob Lynch in the closing minutes gave the Ohioans a 30-29 lead, and the teams matched buckets as the final seconds ticked away.

The win gave the Bucks, who showed little promise in pre-league play and dropped their opening Big Ten tilt, a comfortable .500 percentage with two games on each side of the ledger. The Bucks have climbed from the bottom of the heap to a tie for third since Saturday night.

Northwestern's sophomore forward, Dick Klein, topped the scoring list with ten markers, two more than chalked up by Ohio's Jed Mees.

Purdue Cage Five Leading Big Ten

CHICAGO, Jan. 16—Purdue was undisputed leader in the Big Ten basketball race today following its 50 to 34 victory last night over Minnesota at Lafayette, Ind. The Boilermakers led the conference with four wins against no losses. Michigan dropped its first game in the circuit to Illinois at Ann Arbor, 48-43, to become tied for second place with Indiana, which beat Wisconsin, 40-34.

At Columbus, Ohio State won its second straight by outlasting Northwestern, 32-31, and Iowa beat Chicago, 41-27, to send the Maroons into lone occupancy of last place.

CHICAGO, Jan. 16—Duquesne defeated Loyola, 28-27, and De Paul won out over Detroit, 47-37, in another of Chicago's double-header basketball programs last night.

The game between Duquesne and Loyola was bitterly fought throughout and six times went into tie scores. Morris Becker of the Dukes settled the issue with his field goal one minute before the game ended.

In the nightcap, De Paul and Detroit battled fairly evenly through the first half, but the Demons finished strongly to win by a comfortable margin.

WALKER TO VIE WITH McDONALD IN FRIDAY FRAY

COLUMBUS, Jan. 16 — Jack "Buddy" Walker, undefeated Columbus Negro and holder of the Ohio Heavyweight boxing title, will meet Sandy McDonald, Dallas, Texas, scrapper who boasts the southwestern belt, in a ten-round melee in Columbus Friday night. Matchmaker Whitey Morrett announced today.

McDonald, who has appeared in top-flight spots at Madison Square Garden, left immediately for Columbus after signing articles.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS
AT PHILADELPHIA—Tommy Spigall, 134, Uniontown, Pa., won lightweight championship of Pennsylvania by decision over Billy Maher, 134, Philadelphia (12).

AT NEW YORK — Al Redid, 131½, New York, defeated Mickey Farber, 134½, New York

AT NEWARK, N. J. — Mike Pliskin, 142, Freehold, N. J., won over Billy Beauhild, 140, Jersey City, N. J. (8).
